Application Questions:

What is your total membership? How large is your officer core? How many members are on your email list? What is average attendance at

We have two coordinators, who do all the administrative and long-term work. The number of courses taught is increasing quarterly; we expect to have approximately 15 courses per quarter next year, with approximately 70 student instructors through the year. Each course has approximately 20 students enrolled. On our SIC-leaders e-mail list, of past and present course leaders, we have 55 members. Our SIC-members list, which includes students, community members, and other interested folks, we have 126 members.

What percentages of your total membership are Undergraduate and Graduate?

Our membership is probably 90% undergraduate. This coming quarter we will have two courses (out of 17-18) taught by graduate students.

What is the mission and purpose of your student group? (this response will be used on the online elections voter handbook)

Student Initiated Courses, an ASSU Service Project, allows students the opportunity to teach their peers about subjects they find interesting and important. Most SICs fill a gap in the Stanford curriculum, or are so timely as to be impossible to offer by the University. SIC gives students the opportunity to learn in a democratic environment, while receiving University credit for their work. Classes are usually taught seminar-style, to allow for intimate interaction and an enhanced learning environment. The program also offers student instructors close faculty-student interaction and experience in designing syllabi and instruction. Through academic diversity, student initiative, and the opportunity for student groups to use SIC as a means of educating others about their work, Student Initiated Courses gives the Stanford community a unique and important facet of education. For more information about SIC and the classes it offers, please visit our website: <http://assu.stanford.edu/sic>.

Why are you requesting Special Fees? (this response will be used on the online elections voter handbook)

With the wide range and large number of courses offered through Student Initiated Courses, it is difficult to provide each course with the optimal resources through the general fee alone. We allow, and encourage, each class to bring guest speakers, to provide ample learning aids (ie, handouts), and to cohesive as a group, through class dinners. These costs, essentially identical to those of normal University seminars, require a budget more substantial than the general fee can offer. Furthermore, SIC is a program that is fundamentally democratic in style and purpose. As such, the student body should have the opportunity to fund SIC democratically.

What are the three largest line item requests in your budget and why? (this response will be used on the online elections voter handbook)

SIC's largest funding requests are for Honoraria, Meeting Food, and non-marketing Copies. Honoraria allows student instructors to supplement their own discussions and lectures with experts in the fields about which they are learning. Food provides classes the opportunity to unite as a group. Photocopies, provided by the program, limits the financial burden placed on the students enrolled in a Student Initiated Course.

What events/programs does your group hold throughout the year for the Stanford Community?

All our courses are open to the entire student body, both undergraduate and graduate. We do not have any special events, although we do hope to have a town hall next year in which we discuss the mission and future of SIC.

Have you applied for Special Fees in the past 3 years? If so, please detail the outcome of each attempt.

If you applied for Special Fees last year, is there an increase in the amount you're seeking this year? If so, why? (this response will be used

How do you plan to publicize your events/programs to the greater Stanford community? Have you registered with Events at Stanford?

If you are an umbrella group, please list the groups for which you are applying for Special Fees, their ASSU account numbers, and contact information for their financial officers.
